Additional information The Droppo HC36 is a Micro-USB based line audio/video receiver with 64MB of internal memory for stored music and videos. The receiver itself is not very compact, but it is convenient to handle and easy to set up. You will find the HC36 in the Droppo shop. Table of content Tools Unbox & open the package After unpacking the package, you can power up your Droppo HC36 and connect it to the Droppo USB power cable. Note that this cable doesn't support charging your Droppo HC36 and so you should use a battery charger for this. If you are using a Droppo USB power cable, you'll also need to connect it to your computer. You can also perform a soft reset by holding down the buttons on the front of the receiver for 5 seconds. Note that you cannot perform a hardware reset on the Droppo HC36, this requires the use of a Droppo tools software or the Droppo HC36's instruction manual. If your Droppo HC36 is not responding, please try the following: Note that you can change the display text by pressing the Up Arrow button when it is enabled (which is by default on the left side) or pressing the Down Arrow button when it is enabled (which is by default on the right side).
